Guided tour of Fallingwater

Fallingwater is a house designed in 1935 by Frank Lloyd Wright for the Kaufmann family, owners of Pittsburgh's largest department store. One of Wright's most widely acclaimed works, Fallingwater exemplifies his philosophy of organic architecture: the harmonious union of art and nature. Wright designed Fallingwater to rise above the waterfall over which it is built. Local craftsmen quarried native sandstone and other materials from the property and completed the construction of the main house, guest house and service wing in 1939. In 1963, Edgar Kaufmann Jr. donated and entrusted Fallingwater and the surrounding 469 acres of natural land to the Western Pennsylvania Conservancy, a nonprofit conservation organization.

- Expect considerable walking and standing on all guided tours. We recommend visitors wear closed-toe shoes with a rubber non-slip sole that provides both comfort and support. There is a ¼ mile walk from the Visitor Center to the house on uneven gravel surfaces. We offer a shuttle service to and from the house for visitors with mobility challenges.
- Touring the house's multiple levels requires climbing over 100 steps. For visitors unable to climb the stairs to the upper levels of the house.
- Fallingwater's site includes more than a mile of sloping gravel paths, which may be challenging for visitors with mobility limitations.
- Fallingwater is not air conditioned.

Flight 93 National Memorial

A common field one day. A field of honor forever. On Tuesday morning, September 11, 2001, the U.S. came under attack when four commercial airliners were hijacked and used to strike targets on the ground. Nearly 3,000 people tragically lost their lives. The Flight 93 National Memorial, administered by the National Park Service, serves as a permanent memorial to the 40 heroes on United Flight 93 who courageously gave their lives thwarting a planned attack on the nation's capital on September 11, 2001.

Lunch stop on own
Quecreek Mine Rescue Site

Hear the miraculous account of the rescue of nine coal miners trapped 240 feet beneath a farmer's field in Somerset County. See the actual rescue site, the capsule that brought each man out after nearly 4 days of captivity and much more.
